Provincial Aid For Technical Education

The Hon. J. R. Boyle, Minister of Education, has announced that the order-in-council providing for special provincial aid for technical education was passed on Monday, November 2.

The details regarding the schedule of grants and regulations are now being forwarded to the school boards and teachers throughout the province, and will appear in these columns next week.

The plan adopted provides for special grants (a) to school boards, to assist them in providing the necessary equipment and in maintaining the classes, and (b) to the teachers to encourage them to qualify for the special instruction and give satisfactory service therein after having qualified.

In rural and village districts where assistance is given for instruction in manual training and household science, special emphasis is placed on instruction in agriculture and gardening. In town districts the encouragement of instruction in household science and manual training receives special attention, while that in agriculture and its related sciences is the principal aim. In the elementary phases of the work in the province for the greatest proportionate aid being given toward the development of night class instruction and vocational, vocational and technical day classes. Substantial aid is given also for the encouragement of night class instruction in the smaller communities, particularly in the industrial and mining centres.

In all cases the local organization, the school board and equipment provided for the courses of instruction and the instructors must be approved by the Department of Education before the grant can be paid. In order that the quality of instruction may be maintained at a high standard, the teachers of the various special subjects and courses will have to meet the requirements of the Department of Education before being recognized for the grant.

For the more advanced work qualified specialists will receive due recognition upon application to the Department of Education. For the elementary phases of the work in the various subjects the teachers, not already qualified, may secure the necessary training at the summer school for Teachers.

To insure that unity of purpose and strict necessity to secure the fullest and most economical use of all accommodation, equipment and specialized services available, the courses and classes affected by these grants are to form an integral part of the school system under the school board and under the general direction and supervision of the superintendent of schools in those school districts where such an official is employed by the board and in all other cases under the direction of a principal to be designated as the supervising principal of the schools of the district.

In order that the night class work for this winter may realize full benefit in the way of provincial aid, the schedule of grants in so far as it pertains to night class instruction is to be operative from January 1, 1915. The remainder of the schedule becomes operative on and after January 1, 1916.

November Rod and Gun

Bonnycastle Dale is the leading contributor to the November tests of Rod and Gun tested by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont., writing on the subject "Trapping in Ontario 1913-1914." In "Wintering in the Water Woods" W. D. White describes vividly the joys of the winter camping trip. "Bear trapping and pack carrying in British Columbia" tells of a hunter who trapped a hunky bear weighing some one hundred and sixty pounds and then carried him on his back for a distance of ten miles over an uneven woods trail. "Hill and Here and Me" is a well-written account of a canoe trip in the northern wilderness. The remainder of the magazine is replete with interesting articles, and the various departments are well maintained.

United States Soft Coal [Not Being Imported]

"Not a pound of American soft coal is coming into Alberta, so far as we know."

This statement was made this morning by Manager Telford, of the Chinook collieries in answer to a query regarding the complaint made by one of the delegates of the miners' union to the conference of government and drive officials at Calgary last week to discuss the question of the unemployed in the province.

It was charged that American soft coal was being imported and that if such was the case, the matter should be investigated and if found correct, stopped; if possible, so that coal from the mines in the province would not have to compete with eastern coal. This would give the miners more work to do, and so help the question of unemployment. The operator themselves say that an American soft coal is being imported and they know of no American importations either. The local market extends as far as Brandon, and some local coal is being imported, and the reduction in freight rates has helped very materially, say the operators, to extend their market, and no competition is run until this Brandon line is reached. Some soft coal is known to have come as far as Swift Current, but it is stated that the railroads are using the soft coal imported from the Pennsylvania docks. Their reason for doing this is said to be the old practice, that they can utilize the surplus by bringing the product back. They can purchase the Pennsylvania coal for slightly less than they pay for Alberta coal, and it also has the advantage of a lake and rail route over an all-rail route. Alberta coal reaches many points in the United States and the lack of outlet generally is said to be due to the mild weather, not to competition with the Yankee product.—Lethbridge Herald.

The Story of "It's A Long, Long Way to Tipperary"

"It's A Long, Long Way to Tipperary" was written by Jack Judge, a London music hall artist, of Irish descent. He composed both the words and music over two years ago, but could not find a publisher, although his visited house after house in London. Finally he persuaded one publisher, just a little over a year ago, to try it and at once it was a decided hit. After that Judge's fortune was made and the sound of the marching tune can now be heard every where throughout the British Empire, and in many countries where they are friendly to the Allies.

The Ten Commandments

The following ten commandments are offered by one philosopher, for the guidance of catalogue home patrons:

1 You shall sell your wares produce for cash, whenever you can, but not to us. We do not buy from you.

2 You shall believe our statements and buy all you need from us because we want to be good to you although we are not acquainted with you.

3 You shall send the money in advance to give us a chance to get the goods from the factory with your money. Meanwhile you will have to wait patiently a few weeks as that is our business method.

4 You shall buy church bells and church fixtures from us and forward the money in advance for this is our business method.

5 You shall collect from the business men of your town as much money as you can for the benefit of your churches as it is against our rules to donate for building country churches.

6 You shall buy your tools from us and be your own mechanic in order to drive the mechanics from your vicinity for we wish to.

7 You shall induce your neighbor to buy everything from us as we have room for more money—the less money there is in your community the sooner we can put your local merchants out of business and charge you what we please.

8 You shall look often at the beautiful pictures in our catalogues, your wishes will increase and so you will send in a big order although you are in no immediate need of the goods, otherwise you might have some money left to buy some necessary goods from your local merchant.

9 You shall have the merchants who repair your goods you buy from us book the bills so that you can send the money for their labor to us for new goods, otherwise they will not notice our influence.

10 You shall in case of sickness or need apply to your local dealer for aid and credit as we don't know you nor do we care to.—Hardware & Metal Journal.

Ground Broken for C.P. Pavillion, San Francisco

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 7.—Ground for the Canadian Pacific railway pavilion at the Panama Exposition grounds was formally broken yesterday in the presence of Exposition officials and representatives of American railroads and traffic interests, and department of natural resources, Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mrs. Jackson, wife of the General Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Passenger Department at San Francisco, drove the first spade and the ceremony included the raising of Canadian flags over the corner of the site and at the four corners.

Birthe Henderson, Chief of Transportation, Panama Exposition, acted as chairman and formally presented Francis Strain, architect, representing the Canadian Pacific, with the deed of space, extending heavy congratulations and expressing the satisfaction of the administration at the Canadian company's decision to participate in the Exposition. General Agent Jackson responded happily on behalf of the company thanking the administration for courtesies received and expressing the good will of the Canadian Pacific. By rushing work at all possible speed, he hoped the building would be ready for occupation prior to the official opening of the Exposition.
